When a slot is available, the individual and service coordinator will be notified based on the Admission Waiting List (first notified will be individual on the list for the longest period), if no response occurs after two attempts by the Director to contact the individual the next individual on the waiting list will be notified.

Individual Plans

An individual plan is called the Individualized Service Plan (ISP) or Person Centered Plan (PCP). Each person served is key in developing his or her own person centered plan annually. The plan indicates personal goals, strengths, health considerations, and the way for staff to support the individual. The service coordinator of the county SB40 Board schedules and compiles the data shared by the team in the Person Centered Plan.

The plan is developed with the individual's input as well as family members, guardians, county service coordinators, other representatives and staff. The individual has every opportunity to provide information and be a vital part of goal development. The Farmer's House provides a self-assessment for program participants and parent/guardian to be completed prior to the team meeting. Farmer's House staff who work directly with the participant is provided with a questionnaire also completed prior to the planning meeting.

Daily progress notes are completed on the individual's goals and events of the day. The notes are detailed and descriptive. The notes may be completed during the day or at the end of the shift. The notes contain important information about a person to help maintain the health, safety and welfare of the person, and to support them in making their life meaningful.

A monthly summary is created by The Farmer's House Directors based on daily progress notes and submitted to the county service coordinator. A copy of the monthly summary is kept in the Farmer File.

Orientation

The Farmer's House staff will assure that each person has an orientation to each of the programs he/she are participating in, in addition to receiving information about what staff will do to support them.

Participants are asked to sign emergency release forms in case of injury or illness so staff may obtain medical treatment, if necessary. Rights of person served, grievance procedures, abuse and neglect definitions and reporting will be reviewed on admission and then annually.

The Farmer's House Handbook will be distributed during orientation and any concerns and questions are responded to at that time.

Consumer Rights Policy

It is the responsibility of the staff to ensure that consumers have access to their legal rights as citizens and as participants in a program for people with developmental disabilities. Staff members shall be familiar with these rights and be available to explain them to persons served. A list of rights will be posted at each facility owned or operated by The Farmer's House. Rights are explained to each person served and their families and/or guardians at admission, and are reviewed annually at the person centered planning meeting.

Every individual receiving services has the same Constitutional Rights as anyone else. Missouri state law dictates the right of consumers receiving DMH services. The Individual Rights brochure explains it in easy to understand language. If the person is unable to read or understand the written description of his/her rights, a delegate will read the rights and assist them in understanding.

Persons served through The Farmer's House Programs shall be entitled to the following rights without limitations:

- To be treated with respect and dignity as a human being
- To have the same legal rights and responsibilities as any person unless otherwise limited by law
- To have the right to due process review when any limitation to rights is proposed or is alleged to have taken place

If the individual is not able to read or understand the written description of rights, the agency will assist them to understand rights in the manner most appropriate for them and document this review in individual files. When the individual has a legal guardian, the rights review must also be signed annually by the legal guardian. Staff will routinely provide opportunities for individuals to learn about rights and responsibilities and support them to participate in each right.

Limitation of an individual's right(s) will occur only when the person is posing a danger to self or others. The Farmer's House will provide comprehensive training to assist individuals to understand any proposed limitation of rights. External advocates will be available along with Support Coordinator when a rights limitation is being proposed or implemented, and the appeal process will be accessible to the individual and his/her support team. Examples of external advocates include:

- Missouri Protection and Advocacy 1-800-392-8667

Leave of Absence from the Program

The Farmer's House recognizes that individuals served may be absent from programs for medical, health, vacation and other personal reasons. Due to the demand for programming slots, extended time from the program may affect the ongoing procurement of a slot.

When absence is due to hospitalization or extenuating medical circumstances, a medical release is due prior to returning to programming.

If absence is due to vacation or other pre-planned personal reasons, written communication is required to be submitted to The Farmer's House case manager and director of the program.

Extended absences (over 2 weeks) for vacation or other personal reasons may affect ongoing programming procurement and consideration of past absences from programming.

Extensive absences, (20% of individual served scheduled programming) is a valid cause for dismissal.

Due Process Policy

Individual rights as citizens are not limited except through legal proceedings such as guardianship, when the individual is posing immediate danger to themselves or others, or if the support team has agreed to the limitation of the consumer's rights and all limitations have gone through due process.

Procedures:

If it is deemed necessary to propose any limitation of rights to an individual, the following procedure and appeal process will be followed:

- The agency will contact the person, the Regional Center, the person's family guardian, and/or advocate, and The Office of Constituent Services to meet as a team to determine if a rights restriction is warranted in lieu or in conjunction with positive behavior supports.
- The individual and his/her guardian shall receive written notification of the rights restriction to include specific rights which will be limited, the length of time they will be limited, how

- Signed documentation is present that the individual was involved with the decision to limit rights.
- The agency shall make every effort to make sure the individual is aware to the proposed limitation of their rights. The agency shall use available assistive technology to ensure the individual can comprehend to his/her ability, the proposed limitation of his/her rights.
- Within seven (7) working days after notification of the proposed limitations, the individual will meet with a review panel to present his/her response to the proposed limitation of rights. (The review panel will include the Board President, Director of Programs, and Support Coordinator from Regional Center.) The review panel, as needed will utilize available resources (Attorney, People First Chapter, DMH Client Rights Monitor (1-800-364-9687), MO Protection & Advocacy, etc.) for in-service training or for additional information.
- In the event the individual and his/her advocate disagree with the proposed limitation of rights and cannot reach a resolution with the panel, he/she may appeal in writing to request a meeting with the Board of Directors of The Farmer's House at their regularly scheduled meeting during the month which follows the request. The agency will assist the individual and his/her advocate with any questions pertaining to the appeal and inform them as to when and where the appeal will be reviewed.
- The length of time on limiting the rights of an individual shall be reviewed on a quarterly basis, and shall be formally approved by the review panel on a yearly basis.

The following is an explanation of your rights in people first language. It is important for every person to know his or her rights. These are the rights of individuals who receive services from the Missouri Division of Developmental Disabilities:

They have rules to make sure you learn and understand your rights, and that no one takes your rights away before you have a chance to speak for yourself or have someone you choose speak for you. This is called due process.
- You have the same legal rights and responsibilities as any other person unless the court says you do not.
- You have the right to get help. You cannot be denied help because of your race, your religion, your disability or your age. It does not matter if you are a man or woman, married or single.

Research Policy

The Farmer's House will not permit individuals supported by the Department of Mental Health to participate in any research projects which does not comply with the state and federal regulations. Guidelines established under 9 CSR 60-1.010 defines research as "experimentation or intervention with or on departmental patients, clients, or residents, including behavioral or psychological research, biomedical research, pharmacological research and program evaluation. Excluded are those instances where the manipulation or application is intended solely and explicitly for individual treatment of a condition, falls within the prerogative of accepted practice and is subject to appropriate quality assurance review. Also excluded are activities limited to program evaluation conducted by staff members as a regular part of their jobs, the collection or analysis of management information system data, archival research (review or analysis of historical data generated by the department) or the use of departmental statistics." RSMo 630.192 states, "No biomedical or pharmacological research shall be conducted in residential facilities or day programs operated, funded, or licensed by the department for persons affected by mental retardation, developmental disabilities, mental illness, mental disorders, or alcohol or drug abuse unless such research is intended to alleviate or prevent the disabling conditions or is reasonably expected to be of direct therapeutic benefit to the participants. No involuntary patient shall participate in any research."

The Farmer's House shall notify the Department or Regional Office when a request to conduct research is received. The person seeking to conduct research must obtain and complete the "Application for Handbook updated 10/15, 1/17, 8/17, 2/18, 8/18, 10/18

Research with Clients of The Missouri Department of Mental Health” (DMH form 8114). The application with ten (10) copies must be forwarded to the Deputy Director of the Office of Departmental Affairs or their designee. The Professional Review Committee (PRC), a ten(10) person committee established under section 630.192 RSMo and appointed by the director, will review and recommend approval or disapproval of the proposed research project. Based on the completed application, the deputy director or their designee may exempt from PRC review those projects which do not meet criteria to be considered research.

Statements provided in 9 CSR 60-1.010 shall not be construed to limit the rights of an individual which have been established by statute, including the right to informed consent and the right to refuse participation. Written approval from the individual, family, or guardian must be obtained prior to initiating the research project. It is incumbent that approved projects are executed in a manner to comply with accepted statutes.

9 CSR 60-1.015 prescribes that research approved by the PRC shall be reviewed at one hundred eighty (180) day intervals, or more frequently as determined by PRC, from the date of approval until the project is completed. The person conducting the research shall submit information requested by the PRC on the status of the project and provide a report of the results of the department upon completion of the study.

Based on the information obtained during scheduled reviews or any written complaint surrounding the research, the PRC will investigate any suspected harm, or increased risk or harm, to individuals participating in the study or deviation from approved protocol. The PRC may rule to suspend or halt the project until deficiencies are corrected.
